NOMINATIONS COMPLETED LAST NIGHT

Four Offices Have Been Filled by Acclamation.

FOUR CONTESTED.

Great Interest Shown, and Keen Contests Are Expected.

The list for nominations to the various student offices at the University closed yesterday at six o'clock. By the huge list of nominations, sixteen in all, it can be easily seen that there will be many hot contests when the elections take place. The nominees are nearly all well-known on the Campus for their activities, and are chosen to represent the office, which from past experience, they are capable of filling.

Four offices have been decided by acclamation, thus leaving contests for the Presidency of the Students' Society, Presidency of the Athletic Association and for the President and Vice-President of the Union. The four contested offices, which are filled by acclamation, are as follows:

President of the Rugby Club—McLagan.
President of the Hockey Club—Finagan.

President of the Track Club—Foss.
Secretary of the Union—Quackenbush.

The entire list of Nominations and signatures is as given below:

We the undersigned hereby nominate Mr. "Jerry" Aylward, Med. '23, as President of the McGill Students' Council:

TICKETS ON SALE FOR YEARBOOK

Priced at $2.50 and Redeemable By One Copy.

The Management of the Yearbook are having tickets printed which will be sold for the sum of $2.50 to all intending purchasers of the book who are not able to sign away their Caution Money Deposit to this extent, and to those who are not students and have no such deposit. These tickets will be placed on sale at the Union in the care of the porter, and when the publication is issued in April they will be redeemable for one copy. The sale of the tickets will commence at the end of the week, and will last only a few days, so that intending purchasers should watch for a subsequent edition of the "Daily" announcing their release.

This provision is made with a view to make the Yearbook available to everyone who wants to obtain a copy, and at the same time to allow the Board the means of making an accurate estimate of the total number required before the type is finally set up. Nobody who has signed away their Caution Money Deposit is required to purchase a ticket, unless they desire a second copy. These tickets are only for those who cannot pay for the Yearbook with the Caution Money Deposit.

WICKSTEED COMPETITION ON SATURDAY

Promises To Be Keenly Contested.

THREE PRIZES.

Competition Open For All Undergraduates.

The annual Wicksteed Gymnastic Competition will be held at Molson Hall, on Saturday, March 5th, at 2.30 p.m.

What promises to be the most interesting and keenly contested competition of its kind held in recent years will take place Saturday afternoon. The entry list will, no doubt, be twice as large as last year, as the interest in the Gym Club has been running high, owing to the fact that a team has at last been entered in Intercollegiate competition.

As previously announced, the competition is divided into the following divisions:

1. For students of the graduating year.
2. For students of the second and third years.
3. For students of the first year.

The winner of the first division is awarded the Wicksteed Silver Medal. The winner of the second division will receive the Wicksteed Bronze Medal; while a Cup goes to the winner among the first year men.

The exercises will consist of two set and two voluntary movements on each of the following pieces of apparatus:

Side horse, parallel bars, high horizontal bar, mats.
A short drill and short dance, a fence vault, standing hop, step and jump, and a potato race.

Three special practice hours will be held this week at Molson Hall for the men who wish to practise the events for the meet. The hours set for the practice are:

Tuesday, March 1st, 6.15-7.15.
Wednesday, March 2nd, 5.15-6.15.
Thursday, March 3rd, 6.15-7.15.

At these hours the exercises and drills will be set, and everyone will have a chance to become familiar with them.

Any student in the University is eligible to attend these practices and enter this All-round Indoor Championship.

OPEN DISCUSSION OF ECONOMISTS

E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of C.P.R., Will Preside.

The annual open meeting of the McGill Political Economy Club will take place on Thursday next, March the third. The place selected is the lounge room of the Union, which, it is hoped, will be taxed to capacity to house the crowd. Mr. E. W. Beatty, K.C., will be in the chair, and the subject chosen for discussion is "Allied Treatment of Germany." Messrs. Life and Common will deal with this question, and as they have gone to considerable trouble in the preparation of their papers, an interesting evening is assured.

These open gatherings have always been the attraction for a bumper attendance. All undergraduates, graduates and persons interested are welcomed. The more people present, the more comprehensive and absorbing the discussion. The time will be 8.30 p.m., Thursday, March 3rd, in the Union Lounge Room.

BUSINESS OF IMPORTANCE DISCUSSED

Students' Council Held Important Meeting.

HEAVY EXPENSES.

Means Devised To Lower
High Expense of Athletics.

A meeting of the Students' Council was called to order at half-past eleven Sunday morning in the Union. Various businesses of major and minor importance were discussed, and several motions were passed, some of which will be come effective this year and others, which were more in the way of suggestions to the incoming executive.

Discussing the finances of some of the College Clubs, it was found that expenses during the past year have been very high. The costs of training tables, equipment, travelling expenses, and the other many items which help to drain the resources of the clubs, and thus the Students' Society have been high this year. In some cases, it was pointed out, the expenditure of travelling teams could have been greatly lessened if due care had been exercised. Several men have been in the habit of charging accounts which are more personal than otherwise to the club for which they were travelling. This and the extra sojourns of some of the athletes have greatly swelled the expense accounts of more than one club.

To obviate this state of affairs in the future a motion was drafted embodying the views of the present Council on the matter. The motion, which was partly in the form of a suggestion to the new Council, stated that in future only such men who are competing in the sport and others, such as trainers, rubbers and coaches who are absolutely essential, together with the manager of the team, will be carried on trips out of town. The managers will be asked to do their utmost to keep down expenses so that at the close of the year there will be no danger of the Council being met with a deficit. Furthermore no hotel expenses will be paid to men who stay over in a city after the time set for leaving. In the past some clubs which have been competing out of town on Saturdays have not returned to Montreal till the following Monday morning. In future the competitors will have to pay all their own expenses after the time set by the club management or the athletic association for their departure.

The forthcoming Alma Mater dance was discussed at length, and each member of the Council pledged himself to do all in his power to make it a success. Already many tickets have been sold for this, the greatest dance of the whole year, and when all arrangements and preparations are completed it is expected that the affair will be the best of its kind ever held at McGill. Committees have

FAMOUS SPEAKERS HOLD SERVICES

Dr. Symonds Gives Address at Wesleyan.

In place of the evening devotional meetings conducted by the residential students at Wesleyan Theological College, special services are being conducted during the present week by prominent speakers. Yesterday evening, at 6.40, the first of these services was conducted by the Rev. H. Symonds, D.D., LL.D., of Christ Church Cathedral.

Rev. Prof. Graham briefly introduced the well-known University preacher, who took as his subject, "Sharers in the Divine Nature," and in a scholarly way dealt with a subject which has and is still puzzling the minds of many.

Dr. Symonds impressed every student present of the necessity of always trying to discern the good in the other fellow. "Men," said the learned speaker, "would be more likely to be inspired — even the most ordinary kind — if they were taught to realize that in each individual there is a spark of Divine nature."

The Cafeteria

There is little or no need to boost the Union Cafeteria to the Student Body as a whole — but there are still a few to whom we would make our appeal.

Catering as it does to the student and his tastes, The Cafeteria has always operated with an eye to his pocketbook as well as his inner man.

The combination of good food well cooked plus economy in price is our basis of operation.

THE NOMINATIONS

The nominations which are published to-day for the eight prominent undergraduate offices show that four are filled by acclamation, leaving four to be contested in the approaching elections. The offices at stake are of the greatest importance, several of them carrying with them a seat on the Students' Council, and as such deserve the careful consideration of the student body. Every undergraduate should have some interest in the manner in which student affairs are managed, and the quality of administration which is meted out by the student governing bodies. Now that nominations have closed every one should make a point of becoming acquainted in some degree with the candidates for office. Popularity and hearsay cannot serve as a basis for intelligent votes, nor can we form any adequate judgment of our future governors except by personal knowledge of their capabilities.

It is in the interest of the student body that its affairs be administered in a proper and able manner, but if its members, by failing to interest themselves in the election of their administrators, later have reason to be dissatisfied with the way in which matters are being managed, it little becomes them to complain. Now is the time to insure the interests of the undergraduate body. If you do not know the men who are running for the various offices, make it a point to obtain enlightenment and satisfy yourself that you at least have done your best to safeguard the future.

NEWFOUNDLAND CLUB TO MEET

Much Important Business To Be Discussed—All Out.

On Thursday night next the Newfoundland Club will hold its regular meeting. This will probably be the final one for the season, and a large attendance is requested.

Several important matters are coming up for discussion, among which will be the manner in which the "wind-up" for the year's activities will be held.

Many suggestions have been received as to the final social event of the season, and these were discussed at the meeting of the executive and social committee held last week. It was thought advisable not to take any steps until all the members had been given an opportunity to talk over the affair. Consequently, a large majority of the members will be necessary to determine upon anything definite.

Some members want the affair to be strictly "stag," with minnows of the Gayety floating round. Another set seems to favor the Ritz, while a third insists upon the presence of the fair sex if it is to be a success. It is everyone's privilege to voice his opinion and support his own party, so that everyone may be completely satisfied when the event is unrolled.

(A Warning! Rumor has it that a certain orator has been hired to influence the meeting in favor of a "fish and brews" supper. How many want to support it?)

There are several other matters for consideration, so it is topped a record attendance will be the result. The meeting takes place at 7.15 p.m. sharp in the Strathcona Hall. If everyone gets there on time, a motion for adjournment will be in order by 7.45 p.m. at the latest. All out, then, and make this the biggest and speediest meeting of the season.

Boost the "Daily" when you buy. And do your shopping early.

POLO PLAYERS IN FINE TRIM

Exciting Match Expected When They Meet Varsity on Friday.

Mr. Vernot has all the Water Polo players in fine shape for the return match with Varsity, on Friday night. Practices were held regularly last week, and the team is back to its old-time form. Fisk has practically recovered from his recent illness, and with his help we expect to have some lively shooting at the Varsity nets.

The forwards, including Vernot, Fisk and Parsons, have some good combination plays worked out, so that it is expected that the three-point lead will be overcome.

There will be two more practices before the game, one to-day at 5.20 in the Y.M. tank, and one to-morrow at the same time and place.

Tickets for this important feature, one of the last Intercollegiate this year, will be on sale at the Union and Y.M. on Wednesday. As a record attendance is expected, with only a limited accommodation for spectators, tickets should be purchased early.

been appointed to look after the various matters to be fixed up, and all arrangements should be completed during the next few days.

An important arrangement concerning the "McGill Daily" was the election of W. F. Macklaiser as the president for next year. Macklaiser has been the Managing Editor of the paper for the last year and a half, and has shown decided ability for the work. His experience, coupled with enthusiasm, will ensure for the "Daily" a very successful year next session.

NOTICES

Members of executives and others are requested to look under this heading for notices of all futurities. Each notice is absolutely official. The Editor will not be responsible for errors in articles unless the time and date are written out in full when they are sent in.

THE RESCUED MICROSCOPE.

It has come to our notice that the question of the ownership of the microscope and of the authenticity of the story published in that connection is not satisfactorily settled in the minds of the Meds. For their advice, we are inserting this information.

After proving positive ownership, G. Dempsey, Med. '25, claimed and was delivered microscope No. 135847. The story as published in the "Daily" on the night that the intruder attempted to rob Dempsey of the microscope has been investigated and is true. Had it not been for Murphy's promptness, the microscope would have been gone beyond recovery.

The story of his recovering it from the would-be possessor as recounted in the "Daily" was in accordance with the facts.

But not unlike other newspaper accounts, the story was somewhat over-vivid, and in part exaggerated—as to the injuries received. If any misunderstanding has come up on this account, the "Daily" wishes to express its regret and trusts this will rectify the matter.

PLAYERS' CLUB REHEARSAL.

There will be a rehearsal of "The Wonder Hat" to-night at 7.30 in the R.V.C. All members of the cast, as well as any of the executive who can manage to do so, are requested to attend.

The meeting of Student Volunteers will be held to-day at 7.45 p.m. instead of 7.00 as usual.

This change of hour is made in order to take advantage of Mr. O. S. Stanchfield's visit.

MACCABEAN CIRCLE.

The next meeting of the above Circle will take place on Wednesday evening, March 2, at 8.15 p.m., at the Fraternal Chambers, No. 1 Hutchison Street. There is very important business to be discussed.

The programme will be interesting and includes papers by Messrs. Gurman and Mirsky. All members are urged to be present.

B. W. & F. TEAM PICTURE.

The picture of the B. W. & F. team will be taken at Notman's at 5.15 to-day. The men will dress at the Union and then go down. In addition to the men who took part in the Intercollegiate Meet, the following are asked to be present:

Macdonald
Currie
Montgomery
Armstrong
Rumple
Becking
Ward
Martineau

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY.

At a specially convoked meeting of the Law Undergraduates Society this morning, a resolution was passed sympathizing with Charles Phelan, Law '21, on the death of his father.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the Returned Men's Association to-day at 5.15 in the Union. Class representatives are asked to attend.

H. Fisk
L. Parsons
R. Foss
L. Walters
W. Laidley
M. Bruker

R. Bastable
W. Munro

Lectures on Photo-Electricity will be given by Professor A. L. Hughes at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week and a more popular lecture will be given on Friday.

COURT HOUSE DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Heroic Rescue of the Judge By One of the Firemen

AT SIMS' CORNERS.

Trial of Whiffletree et al, To Be Conducted in the Union on March 8th.

Last night, the most severe and destructive fire took place at the Court House. It is said that it was the worst fire the town has ever seen, and the damage done by it cannot be estimated.

The fire was noticed at about 7.30 by a passer-by, and an alarm was at once rung in. The call was answered by District Chief Wheatfield, and practically the whole available fire-fighting force of the town. Within a minute the hose were connected up, and were soon playing on the burning building, which was now a mass of flames.

At this moment a figure appeared at one of the upper windows. It was one of the Judges, who, as we learned afterwards, had been engrossed in reading the last instalment of Blue-Eyed Bill, the Bonehead Bandit, and who had not noticed the fire, though, as he said, "it was sort of warm." It was impossible to save him except by using the longest ladder. This was placed against the wall of the Court House, and a fireman mounted it. The ladder was not quite long enough. Signalling to the men below, the fireman ordered them to move the ladder out from the wall, while he climbed up and balanced on the last rung. This was done, and the rescuer shouted to the judge to jump, which the latter did, more from fright than anything else. The fireman caught him in one arm, and standing balanced in mid-air on one hand, and holding the terrified judge in the other, he climbed down the ladder, head first, to safety. As a reward for the heroic feat of the judge, the mayor will present him with the Freedom of the City. The fireman was thanked in person by the judge.

After fighting the flames for about two hours, the Chief realized the futility of attempting to save the main building, and so he turned his attention to saving the outbuildings in which the Registry Office for Hookthelager and Jack Carter was situated. So to cope with the outbuildings he despatched one section of the brigade.

A large crowd was now gathering around the Court House, and it was very hard work for the police to keep the onlookers back. Nearly a quarter of the population of the city watched the fire, so it is estimated.

In the meanwhile the outbuildings began to catch, but after some hard work on the part of the brigade, they were able to extinguish the fire in them with the aid of the watering cans which they had brought with them, and with which they poured coal oil on to the fire, thus putting it completely out. It was the chief's own idea to use coal oil, and the results of his work are much in evidence, and he is certainly to be congratulated.

The fire in the main building continued to burn brightly for about an hour afterwards, when the crowd were startled by a loud explosion, which shook the earth for miles around and shattered numerous windows in the vicinity of the burning Court House. It is thought that it was caused by the burning of an exhibit in the Bolshevik case of Rex vs. Count Coney-Yak de Craillie. This explosion practically put out the fire. It is not certain whether it was the bomb that caused the explosion, or the seditious literature which the Count is charged with issuing.

As an immediate result of the fire, the shares in the Department of Justice of Sims Corners are at a very low price, the bonds equally low ($10 and accrued interest), and the pending case of Rex vs. Whiffletree et al. will take place at the McGill Union on Thursday, March 8th.

day, illustrated with experiments. Dr. Hughes is Research Professor at Queen's University at Kingston. He worked for some time at the Cavendish Laboratory, Cambridge, and later at the Rice Institute, Houston. During the war he went to England and worked for the Admiralty with success, at one of the more difficult methods of Submarine detection. He is author of the standard work on Photo-Electricity, a subject which links together modern developments in spectroscopy, ultra-violet light, photography, electrons and the constitution of the atom.

He has a close connection to Montreal, inasmuch as he married the second daughter of the Rev. Dr. Paterson-Smyth.

ALUMNI NEWS

Rt. Rev. Dr. J. A. Newnam, Arts '78, Bishop of Saskatchewan, has tendered his resignation to the executive council of the diocese, to take effect next fall. Failing health is given by Dr. Newnam as the reason for his desire to be relieved of his See. After several years spent in missionary work, first on the Upper Ottawa, later in the Hudson's Bay area, and finally in Northern Saskatchewan, he was in 1893 created Bishop of Moosonee, and in 1914 became Bishop of Saskatchewan. Bishop Newnam's labors are bound up with the progress of the Church of England in Western Canada. Throughout he has remained a staunch follower of McGill, and in spite of many other calls upon his purse, has contributed liberally to its funds.

At Barcelona, Spain, on February 18, a daughter was born to the wife of R. O. McMurtry, Arts '05, Law '08.

Rev. N. A. F. Bourne, Arts '07, Rural Dean of West Simcoe, has completed his tenth year as rector of the Parish of Penetanguishene, Ont.

Howells Frechette, M.Sc., Sci. '01, was a Canadian delegate to the recent meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, held in New York.

The marriage will take place this month of Jean Julien Perrault, Arch. '15, of Montreal, and Laurette, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beaubien, also of Montreal.

At Ottawa, on February 21, Lieut.-General Sir Henry Burstall, Inspector-General, presented Lieut.-Col. David A. Whitton, Med. '98, with the Cross of the Order of the British Empire. This decoration was conferred upon Dr. Whitton for his services during the war as a medical officer in charge of the hospital ship Araguay. Fully 10,000 wounded Canadians thus passed through his hands.

The command of the Canadian Air Force has been offered to Colonel Redford H. Mulock, D.S.O., Sci. '09, who saw distinguished service overseas with the naval wing of the R.A.F. Colonel Mulock holds from Winnipeg, where he enlisted in 1914 as a gunner. On arrival overseas he was transferred to the R.N.A.S., in which he won the D.S.O. and bar, the Legion of Honor, and was twice mentioned in despatches. Colonel Mulock is recognized as being one of Canada's premier airmen. Had not the armistice intervened, he would have headed the party which was charged with the bombing of Berlin.

Pierre Frederic Lefebvre, Law '63, who died in Montreal on February 19, was a classmate of Sir Charles Peers Davidson, and one of the oldest graduates of the Faculty of Law.

TENNIS GIVEN ENCOURAGEMENT

Plans For the Development of Junior Material in England.

Looking back upon the course of the English lawn tennis season just past, a step forward is to be recorded toward improving the facilities for, and raising the standard of, play throughout the country.

Internationally, the lawn tennis outlook in the British Isles is anything but bright at the moment, but the Lawn Tennis Association, which is the governing authority of the game, no longer content with the present situation, is taking in hand the younger players and instructing them in the way they should go. Players of tender years are being encouraged, and at nearly all the tournaments there are special events for boys and girls under 18 and there are junior championships. A civic championship, open to those who can afford to play in the public parks only, was instituted last year and proved a great success. Donald McLeod, a wealthy shipowner, has presented magnificent cups for competition among schoolboys, and, altogether, the juvenile player is being well looked after.

It is a long way to the system in vogue in the United States, but the authorities have begun to realize that unless the children are properly looked after and encouraged, British players can never hope to regain supremacy in a game which was started in England, and at which for so many years they were without a serious rival.

In the season of 1914 lawn tennis had reached a height of popularity in England which its original inventor, Major Wingfield, never thought of in 1873. Then came the war, and all sport was blotted out from the public point of view. There was, of course, plenty of sport in the army, and one of the most popular branches proved to be lawn tennis. Courts were laid out everywhere, even within proximity of the trenches in Flanders, and people who had been somewhat inclined to regard the game as only fit for garden parties, played it, and the more they played it the more they became convinced of its grand quality.

uates of the Faculty of Law. Born at St. Henry in 1842, he attended Montreal College before entering McGill. While a student in the office of Hon. P. Laflamme, Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Law '64, was also studying there. In earlier life, Mr. Lefebvre was well known in musical circles as soloist in the Cathedral at Montreal for 15 years. He also engaged in concert tours through the Eastern States. He is survived by two sons and one daughter, 15 grandchildren, and more than 20 great-grandchildren.

Graduates everywhere learned with delight of the appointment of Dr. R. F. Rutman, Med. '84, to the temporary chairmanship of the Honorary Advisory Council for Scientific and Industrial Research.

At the Ottawa Maternity Hospital, on February 22, a daughter was born, stillborn, to Dr. W. E. Cockfield, Arts '13, and Mrs. Cockfield.

Lieut.-Col. J. Creelman, D.S.O., Law '07, who has been elected to the presidency of the Canadian Artillery Association, has been Officer Commanding the 6th Brigade, C.F.A., since 1912. During the war he was with the 2nd Brigade, C.F.A., 1st Division, and was decorated with the Order of St. Stanislaus of Russia as well as with the D.S.O. He was a member of the Coronation Contingent of 1911, and passed the militia staff course in 1913. Lieut.-Col. Creelman is an alderman of Montreal and a Protestant School Commissioner.

Dr. George S. McCarthy, Med. '94, of Ottawa, has been appointed by the Cuban Government to be honorary attaché and medical official of the Consulate General of the Republic of Cuba, in that city.

After a short illness, the death took place at his home, 73 St. Famille Street, Montreal, on February 22, of Dr. David Hillet Bernstein, Med. '07, a leading Jewish physician of the city. Dr. Bernstein was born in Lodz, Poland, 38 years ago, and came to Canada as a child. His health compelled him, two years ago, to resign from the presidency of the Hebrew Children's Fresh Air Fund, which he founded. He was also for a time chief of the children's clinic at the Herzl Dispensary. Dr. Bernstein had been a contributor to the Canadian Medical Journal, and is survived by his wife and two children, as well as by his parents.

Recent militia orders include mention of the following appointments: Lieut.-Col. Herbert Molson, C.M.G., O.B.E., M.C., Sci. '94, to be honorary Lieutenant-colonel, 2nd Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Canada, Montreal; Major W. C. Hyde, D.S.O., Arch. '14, to command the 5th (Westmount) Battery, C.F.A.

ties. So many men had fallen victims to the attractions of the game that when war was at last over and they had returned to their peacetime avocations there were not enough courts to accommodate them all. The humblest of clubs had long waiting lists, and it was clear that the game was even more popular than before the war.

THE NEW GRAND.

A double feature programme is offered to the patrons of the New Grand Theatre to-day and for the balance of the week. The feature attraction is "The Jack-Knife-Man," King Vidor's latest photoplay. The story of the picture chronicles the doings of a strange colony along the banks of the Mississippi River, consisting to a great degree of the owners of dilapidated shanty boats. The central character is old Peter, a strange chap who ekes out a living whittling spoons and toys from soft pine with his jack-knife. Into his life comes Buddy, a poor little waif, whom Peter fathers and mothers at the same time. Eventually his family is increased by Boogie, a singing tramp. Their efforts to take care of the orphan lad and keep him out of the hands of a society for finding homes for orphan children furnishes a story that is full of quaint humor and pathos. The extra added picture is Mack Sennett's comedy, "Love, Honor and Behave." It shows the folly of most suspicions. In this picture it is the wife who wrongly suspects her husband. They are but bride and groom, and this is their first quarrel. The bride appeals to "Judge" Murray, whom she interrupts while he is seated in his robes at Court. Other pictures make up a pleasing bill. The New Grand Concert Orchestra, under the direction of David S. Levin, plays the musical accompaniment.

University of Washington. Candy sales for the physical education lodge will receive a decided slump as a result of Keep Fit Week if health cards are lived up to, in the opinion of physical education majors. The health record cards issued to all members of physical education classes who are interested in keeping use of the traditional college symbol clauses "No eating between meals." Among other rules outlined on the cards are eight hours sleep, 10.15 retiring hour, one hour of out-door exercise, three meals a day, and an effort for good posture.

STANCHFIELD TO SPEAK AT STRATH. HALL

Topic To Be "Rural Banking in India."

KNOWS HIS SUBJECT.

Mr. Stanchfield Inaugurated Above System to Protect Rural Communities.

Mr. O. S. Stanchfield, who spoke some time ago before the Canadian Club of Montreal, on the subject of Rural Banking in India, is again visiting the city, this time under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. He will speak at several of the branches on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and will be at Strathcona Hall on Tuesday night at 7.45.

The story of the rural banking enterprise in India is one of great interest as an outstanding example of Applied Christianity, in a country where money lenders enriched themselves upon the borrowers at percentages that would make our most hardened profiteer gasp.

Mr. Stanchfield is the man who inaugurated the rural banking system in India as a means of controlling the notorious usurers who kept the farming population poor. No form of missionary enterprise could be more practical. The extension of agricultural education in India has also been undertaken as a missionary enterprise by the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A., represented by Mr. Samuel Higginsbotham, who told the story of the project in a graphic way at the Des Moines Convention last year. To meet the unmet need has always been the aim of the Association.

Mr. Stanchfield will be worth hearing on Tuesday night. The meeting is open to all who care to attend.

THEATRES

ORPHEUM.

With the lobby be-decked with lanterns, and the ushers robed in fittings of the Orient, the Orpheum Theatre is this week a veritable mandarin's palace for the production of "The Love of Su Shong." A crowded house last evening were thoroughly taken by the efforts of the stock players, whose playing of the Chinese comedy-drama was meritorious of considerable praise. It is a matter of general satisfaction to see the old hackneyed "down home drammers", and society sensations die a natural death and be replaced by plays of genuine worth and of things as they are. Things typical, and not things excessively out-of-the-ordinary are what the public want—and that has evidently been the aim of the management in choosing this week's offering. The plot portrays China as it is—its emotional side—its traditional side—its backwardness in custom—but a romantic China nevertheless.

The general theme is after the fashion of Fay Bainter's successful "East is West," and like that play, "The Love of Su Shong" has a lasting and non-forced appeal. It brings America into contact with the Orient, and in doing so shows the marked contrast between the two countries. But it shows that Americans and Chinese alike, all are human, all love—and all hate.

Headed by Miss Carlyle, and much reinforced by Mr. Byron, in a comedy role, the Stock Company's cast for this week's offering carry themselves remarkably well. They were constantly applauded by the crowded house, and in every case well merited the expressions of appreciation.

GAYETY.

"Jollities of 1920" is this week's offering at the Gayety.

The comedy is of a superior kind to that usually met with, while the songs are both pleasing and musical. It abounds with artistic scenery. The acting of the players brought the house down on more than one occasion.

Sammy Howard, the leading man, received well merited applause on many occasions as did the other members. He was ably supported by Cliff Bragdon, Harold Carr and Frank Mallahan. The leading ladies were Helen Tarr and Norma Barry.

The first scene in the second act is exceptionally well staged and presented. The Jollities Jazz Band proved to be very popular.

The play is replete with new jokes and songs and treats the patrons to a splendid performance, which one ought by no means miss.

NEW GRAND.

Ellis Parkey Butler's "Jack-Knife-Man" is one of the purest, quaintest and most appealing heart pictures that any local theatre has ever shown in its clientele. The very simplicity of the picture that heads this week's bill is the keynote of its success. The modern tendency of the film producer is nowadays often disgustingly one-sided—his releases are suggestive or sensational in their impossibility. "The Jack-Knife-Man" is neither—hence it is successful.

The setting for the action is tranquil as sunset, with the banks of the upper Mississippi as the background, and a shanty boat drifting lazily down its waters or snuggled in one of the river's coves at the setting. The plot tells of the adventures of an old shanty man who finds in the autumn of his life that a wife is left on his hands by a dying mother who had sought his shanty boat as protection from a Mississippi storm. Bobby Kelso, as the little "Buddy," makes a chubby little hero, and brings a goodly share of heart interest into the plot. It is a worth while picture, one that is clean and refreshing throughout.

The comedy feature, "Love, Honor and Behave," was rather a disappointment, although it appeared to please a part of the house. The nucleus of the plot was a cleverly thought-out idea, but the slapstick element that was unfortunately introduced tended to weaken the structure of the picture. It was amusing, but very much overdone.

The Bray Cartoon film, recounting the further doings of "Dudley," is a very comical and witty affair. It is genuine humor, and is a short but clever piece of cartooning. Congratulations must be given the orchestra for their enjoyable interpretation of the feature play. Their pieces were well chosen, and their rendition was excellent.

PRINCESS.

The vaudeville at the Princess this week is very good and well worth seeing. All the acts are good, and some of the sketches are clever. There are no dull moments, and the performance is well worth the while of those who have time to go and see it.

Lucas and Inez are the first performers in a rather uncommon feat of strength act. Merlin, with his pack of cards, was the next act. Besides some very clever tricks, he introduced a lot of comedy into the act. "A Letter of Introduction," by Mack and Earl, was next, but proved to be just mediocre comedy.

George F. Moore and his "Fidgety-Fudge Revue" elicited loud applause from the audience. Mr. Moore

WHAT IS AN EDUCATION?

A university is supposed to educate the student, and we are accustomed to term those clever or fortunate youths who become "enriched" by the added store of facts and theories which in haphazard conglomeration the university bestows, as "educated." Now, when is a man "educated"?

Perhaps no two men would entirely agree as to what an education really is. Carlyle said: "The true university in these days is a collection of books." Books, to most people, suggest packages of printed paper with a cover about them. Surely to accumulate a plethora of beautiful volumes to grace the luxurious library of the newly rich does not make a man educated? Very often the owner uses these volumes about as much as his cat—perhaps even less. But the sad fact about the popular esteem of books is that people cannot see beyond the paper. In consequence, the lover of books is contemptuously labelled with the name "book worm," as one who burrows away in dry as dust (to use a Carlylian expression) compilations of paper. Yet strange to say, if the association with books makes a fossilized mind, the fact remains that some of our greatest intellects have grown on such food. Carlyle was a notorious "book worm" even in childhood. Ruskin was a lover of them, and Emerson a persistent reader.

A man should read Ruskin's "Sesame and Lilies" to see beyond the material of books. He then converses with minds, not paper, and feasts on ideas, not on mere words. Thus the true conception of a book is the collection of ideas contained therein, and beyond that the personality which as the source, becomes greater than the product. Thus by reading books we indicate our choice of companions. The man who prefers the newspaper, selects a variety of his contemporaries; the man who reads the sensational novel virtually hobnobs with the desperado or the adventurer; the man who relishes philosophy lives among the sages. By their books we shall know them!

Nevertheless, the perpetual ingestion of new and glorious thoughts, fresh from the minds of the great, constitutes only a part of our education. We cannot live always with these, but must for the most part subjugate ourselves to that never ending erosion which society entails. "I am a part of all that I have met," exclaimed Ulysses—a true psychologist realizing that on the mind no impression is lost, no word unremembered, but declares itself occultly in our every move and motive. Thus experience is part of education, and in most men unfortunately the only part. I say unfortunately, because the individual's life is inevitably restricted to a more or less confined environment, and the everlasting tendency of habit tends to make men fossilize into a rut-life when any new idea comes like a bewildering thunder bolt with a subsequent temporary chaos. Experience hews a man into his ultimate shape and takes the form of destiny.

Education means little if it does not make us wiser. "Experience is a hard task master, yet fools will learn with no other"—and that is why, all men being fools, we are not really wise till we have lived somewhat.

was very good and evoked much laughter. Dancing and singing were pleasantly intermingled with comedy. "Your Eyes Have Told Me So" and other popular songs were sung.

Eddie Foyer then gave a clever monologue, and then recited one of Service's poems, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." It was excellently rendered and he was loudly encored. His elocution is much better than that of the average speaker on the stage. The best act of the bill is "All Right, Eddie." It consists of a prologue and four disconnected sketches. Wood and Wyde are the performers and take their parts cleverly. The first scene is one of the stocks in England, the second is that of an igloo, and is the best of the four. The Knights of the Blind Pig and the Palace at Versailles are the titles of the third and fourth skits.

Elkins, Fay and Elkins sang a few of the popular songs and played one piece of the extreme jazz type by means of a piano and two tambourines.

Bill, Genevieve and Walter then closed a very good bill with a bicycle act entitled "Won't You Be Careful."

How then can this pseudo education of ours in which a child's mind is choked with facts, items of knowledge, be of any value if it does not teach a child how to use that knowledge? We raise children to be blotting papers, not to be producers. Our system of examinations, lectures, etc., is based on the sponge saturation scheme, wherein the fluid of facts is absorbed with increasing rapidity till examination time, when it is most promptly squeezed out, and the sponge is left free in its lightness and emptiness. This suction and expulsion continues, then, intermittently until the college education is completed.

Fortunately for us, the fluid of knowledge is fairly viscid, so that when the sponge is compressed some small quantity adheres to its surface, there to become encrusted.

If we teach the child to think for himself, we educate him not only to absorb but also to produce. We render him capable of co-ordinating the miscellany of facts which we have so ruthlessly hurled at him, in order to give him greater adaptability to environment. If this applies to the child, much more does it apply to the youth at college when the value of independent thought becomes more apparent. Some will say, why teach a man to think for himself?—that would only increase the antagonism and ceaseless dissension extant today—better compel him to believe one definite assortment of dogmas, and call them Divine in order to make the compulsion stronger. This is the attitude of religious instructors, particularly of those with whom a new idea is as it were a new sin or disease. But far from producing by intellectual verbiage a universal peace, such enforced ignorance has been the source of terribly devastating and stupid wars. Few of us can regard the superstition and intellectual sterility of the Dark Ages without a sigh of relief that those old days of closed mindedness and dependence of thought are past to great degree.

When we teach the child to think for himself, we develop his intellect—but education of this sort, although excellent, is one-sided. Character, which implies ethical efficiency and strength of sentiments, is still discarded. The present age is an excellent example of this. Where are our men of character now?—men whose very presence makes us tremble! These were men of passion and yet of marvellous self-control. In our times, emotion seems to have run tepid except for such noisy places as Ireland, Mexico, etc., where the wrong sort of emotion is too plentiful, and where reason is at a premium. Character building has been left to the well intentioned but altogether inadequate system of Sunday Schools and pulpit preaching. We need now more scientific instruction in this matter wherein Psychology may bring something of value. Perhaps in the universities of the next century we may see the ideals of Plato realized, when character and not cash will become the goal of effort.

Thus Nietzsche's dream of the Superman may yet contain for us that element of truth that man is but a progress, an ascension into forms of mightier complexity, not the glorified brutes of Nietzsche but men of the might of Jesus. All this—by way of education. H. H. H.

SWINGS and JABS

(By "Left Jab.")

The Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing contests are over, with Toronto scrapers as victors by a very narrow margin. But that should not discourage McGill nor the men that lost. They lost this time, but have all the chances in the world to win next time. The beauty of the sport is to take a licking like a man — which, needless to say, our men did — and hope to do better next time. Every one of our men fought hard, as hard as they could. They did their darndest for Old McGill. Their opponents who won will testify as to the truth of this statement. No man won by a wide margin, he had to fight and fight well for the honors, and when he actually was pronounced the winner, he deserved the decision. We took the licking with a grin, and congratulated the very men who beat us. In one word, the McGill boxers, wrestlers and fencers played the part of true sports, and deserve credit for this. Better luck next time.

John Long, who lost the middle-weight championship to Black, proved to be a "white man" in every respect which the expression implies. When hit by what seemed to the referee to be a low punch, he refused to let his opponent get the worse of the referee's decision, and expressed his own view in the matter, saying the punch was fair, although it damaged him considerably. "Jack" showed the true spirit of his University and deserves great credit for the showing he made against the man who was ten pounds heavier than he was. Good old John!

Badger and McMeens were up against men who were by far heavier than they themselves were. That was the trouble with the heavier men. Not one of the boxers in the middle-weight and heavyweight class went up against his own match. These two men had to take punches from men who through their weight made them harder. The first night, Badger and McMeens won. The second night was too much for their strength, and displaying remarkable gameness, and the old McGill grit, they lost. But that ought not to discourage them in the least. We are giving them straight talk, which is the opinion of the whole University. A licking is not a defeat; by no means. These men will be with us next year, and they are expected to turn out, and try, try, try again. Good luck to them in the future.

The same applies to Mirsky and Chisholm who lost their bouts by half a hair breadth of a decision. For very light men, the two mentioned did all if not more than was expected from them. They were a credit to the University. In the case of Chisholm, the decision was very doubtful, but as a matter of clean sport and courtesy, it is always right to give the decision to the visitor, and in this case Jack had to suffer the loss of the bout.

Shackell, Edelberg and Brewer are now the Intercollegiate Champions. There is no need to mention that these men won decisively, and were compelled to show their wares. They deserved the championship, because they worked hard all year for it. These men were always out at practice, and as a result showed up well. Edelberg underwent the biggest strain of his life when he won. The week previous he was in bed suffering from the grippe. Shackell and Brewer fought like troopers, and deserve praise for the manner in which they won.

Jack McBrierty and George Smith, the coaches of the boxers and wrestlers respectively, did remarkably well, each man training three winners. They worked hard, and gave the men the benefit of what they had in them, and are thanked by the University as a whole for their strenuous efforts. We want them with us again next year, and sincerely hope that they will be with us and lead us to victories for a long time hereafter.
